Enclosed for the Bureau's information is a portion of the official transcript which was made a part of sentencing the five convicted defendants and the one defendant who pled guilty in this matter. Federal Judge JULIUS HOFFMAN commented extensively on the activities of the group associated with this matter as evidenced by his remarks contained in the enclosed transcript.

THE COURT: I should like to say a word first about the fairness of this trial. Going back to those occasions when the defendants' lawyers sought discovery under the criminal rules, I believe that the Court granted more discovery to the defendants than they were entitled to under the law. I did it because that is the philosophy of this Court to give the defendants everything in advance so that they can meet it in open Court.

You lawyers for the defendants, other lawyers present in this Courtroom, have heard me say that time and again in admonishing the members of the United States Attorney's staff, "Give the defendants everything so that they can prepare adequately for their defense."

In the charge of the Court, as it did in its preliminary statement to the veniremen in its examination of the prospective jurors, the Court emphasized and reiterated the presumption of innocence of the defendants. Mention was made repeatedly of the Government's burden of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

The jury was told that as the trier of the facts that they must consider all the evidence in reaching its verdict.

[redacted] b3 b7E

There is no question in my mind about the fairness of the trial in every respect and more especially of the charge to the jury.

I agree with the United States attorney that conspiring to pass fraudulent votes and to falsify election returns is an offense which cannot be regarded lightly by any person who values our American form of government and respects the philosophy on which it is based. An act which injures the qualified voters in a single precinct is a grave and serious offense.

I shall not take the time to compare it with the crime of rape or robbery or armed robbery, as has been suggested by one or more of the lawyers. It is especially a grave and serious offense when it is also a violation of a fundamental right of American citizenship. In those circumstances it carries an additional implication of great and widespread significance which must not be underestimated.

As is always the case, the Court is reminded by defendants who have been convicted by the jury of the awful effect on members, innocent members of the family. I agree that that is true in most cases. That is one of the most unpleasant aspects of the position which I hold, and I am sure there is no trial judge in this building or anywhere that enjoys discharging that responsibility.

But I should like to remind these lawyers, six of whom are former prosecutors, and know it as well as I do, that we must give some attention to the people of the United States who are the plaintiffs in this case, as well as the defendants and their families.

I commend to you a quotation from one of the greatest of all Judges, Judge Cardozo, in the case of Snyder -- I have been cited so many cases here and I cite one now -- Snyder against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 291 U. S. 97. He says there:

> "Justice, though due to the accused, is due to the accuser also. The concept of fairness must not be strained until it is narrowed to a filament if we are to keep the balance true."

I have a responsibility to these defendants; I also have a responsibility to the Government.

Through the corruption of the election process at the General Election of November 2, 1954, the qualified voters of the Seventh Precinct of the First Ward in Chicago were deprived of the right to have their votes for United States Representative and United States Senator counted honestly and recorded at full value. The jury so found by their verdict of guilty.

[redacted]

This constituted a grave injury to the honest voters, to the candidates and to the community. Disregard of so obvious a fact and callous indifference to its consequences could have the effect of weakening and subverting election procedures not only here in Chicago but everywhere.

The spectacle of illegal tampering with election procedure in one precinct, evidence of which was introduced in this case, especially by individuals who were bold enough to operate under assumed names, fraudulent names, I suppose, fosters the suspicion that such practices not only exist in other areas but that they are even an accepted part of the pattern of American political life.

One of the lawyers for the defendants made such a comment, and I believe he concluded his comment by saying, "So what? So what?"

I say if it does obtain, this situation must not continue. [redacted] b3 b7E

The cynical assumption that there are certhem.

If a foreign power or a home grown tyrant should undertake to abolish or manipulate our free elections, all of us would offer the strongest resistance.

I say that attempted control by a little would-be dictator must be put down as completely.

The Federal Government cannot countenance corruption at the polls or be lax in the prosecution of an offense which decreases the value of any citizen's vote.

These defendants, I repeat, have had the fairest kind of trial. They have had sitting at the defense table, out of seven lawyers, six experienced former prosecutors. The seventh lawyer, as I said here before, is one of the most experienced and resourceful criminal lawyers at the bar in the City. They were tried fairly and convicted fairly by evidence which the jury regarded as proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

I might say that the defendants got all they were entitled to from their lawyers In my experience I have never witnessed such a spirited or resourceful defense on the part of lawyers representing defendants in criminal cases. The lawyers are to be complimented on the earnestness with which they approached their responsibility.

I think this case should not go out of this courtroom without a word of commendation to the young insistant United States Attorneys who presented the evidence of the Government quietly and with dignity, no histrionics, behaved in the courtroom as lawyers should behave, knowing that a trial is a search for the truth and for a determination of the facts -- not a circus.

I compliment them on their efforts.

I compliment the Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation not only for their resourceful work in investigating -- in the preliminary investigation, but for the dignity with which they -- and the honesty with which they testified, -- no rancor, no venom, quietly answering questions of both the lawyers for the Government and the lawyers for the defendants.

Mr. Clerk, the defendant [redacted] b6 b7C will be committed to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized agent, for a period of five years. In addition there will be a fine imposed in the sum of $4,000.00 and costs of prosecution.

I am sorry that I have had to commit a man of [redacted] age to the penitentiary, but he committed this crime when he was only one year younger. If Congress intended that all crimes committed by men [redacted] old should receive no attention from the Courts or from prosecutors, they should have said so in the statute. b6 b7C

I am very sorry, and I say that very sincerely.

The defendant, Mr. Clerk, [redacted], will be committed to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized agent for imprisonment for a period of four years and six months. In addition there will be a fine of $2,500.00 and costs of prosecution imposed. b6 b7C

The defendants, [redacted] also known as [redacted] also known as [redacted] also known as [redacted] and [redacted] of them will be committed to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized agent for imprisonment for a period of four years, and each of them in addition will be fined $200.00 b6 b7C

and costs of prosecution.

We come now to consider the case of [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] also known as [redacted]

[redacted]

I do not think that it requires study from an experienced courtroom observer to conclude that the plea of guilty of this defendant was not an orthodox or ordinary plea of guilty. I think the lawyers in the case know very well why this defendant pleaded guilty.

At the same time the Court will give him some consideration because I have said here from this bench time and again that men who plead guilty are entitled to some consideration, always depending on the circumstances in each case.

Mr. Clerk, the defendant [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] also known as [redacted]

will be committed to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States or his authorized agent for imprisonment for a period of three years. In addition, he will be fined $100.00 and costs of prosecution.

I direct that the defendants, there being no substantial question in the opinion of the Court, be committed -- be taken into custody by the United States Marshal.

[redacted] b3 b7E

tain wards in large cities where the vote is deliverable by fraud is almost as intolerable as the fraud itself. It excites suspicion of the many precinct captains, political workers and ward committeemen who are good, honest citizens, and this Court knows many. It produces a sense of futility in the minds of the voters and it discourages participation in political life by contributing to the opprobrium which is often attached to the very word "politician."

The implication voiced in this courtroom by an officer of the Court that stealing votes is less heinous than stealing property or other crimes is a perversion, in the opinion of this Court, of one of our fundamental values. In a fraudulent election it is not only votes which are stolen but also one of the constitutional rights of the voters and the candidates. Interference with their rights of free honest elections is also an offense against one of the basic elements of our system of Government.

The right of the people to choose their public officials was established more than 100 years ago. It is a trust which we cannot guard too diligently. We read in the papers and we hear of the rubber stamp elections in dictator countries, and we deplore

Following the notification of the receipt of these letters by acting US Marshal [redacted] Judge Julius J. Hoffman was interviewed following which he indicated he believed that the letters are a result of one of his most recent court cases involving the Nazi march demonstration in predominantly all Jewish Skokie, Illinois. He indicated that throughout the years he has received several, what he classified crank communications from various people, mostly seizing an opportunity to speak out on a highly publicized case which he had in his court. Hoffman stated that he had no idea of anyone who could possibly be involved in the writing of these letters and knew of no one in Little Rock, Arkansas, who may be capable of doing the same. b6 b7C

After hearing the above, AUSA [redacted] advised that she would decline prosecution in this matter as the letters themselves did not constitute a true violation of the Federal Extortion statute. She indicated that the general nature of the threat would need to be more specific in order to prosecute this matter in Federal District Court. b6 b7C

AUSA [redacted] also stated that due to the insufficient amount of evidence she could not authorize in this instance nor would she consider prosecuting this matter if the identity of the individual was determined as she did not feel this was a true violation of the statute. b6 b7C

In view of the above, no further investigation is being conducted by this office.

Shortly before midnight on September 24, 1969, the San Mateo, California High School, located about 20 miles south of San Francisco, was involved in arson. Three gallons of gasoline were sloshed on a wooden structure on the campus and ignited. Prompt reporting of the fire and the rapid arrival of the Fire Department confined the damage to minor proportions.

Seven individuals, ages 17 and 18, were arrested and charged with arson. Five of those arrested were students at the High School. Of these, two were California Youth Authority parolees, and one was on County probation.

School authorities trace the trouble to September 19, 1969, when three blacks attacked a white hippie type individual off the campus, reportedly seeking narcotics. The three responsible for the attack were expelled from school and minor incidents occurred on the campus. One of these three students was involved in the arson.

A source advised on May 16, 1969, that the Student Mobilization Committee originally grew out of the National Student Strike for Peace conference held in Chicago, Illinois on December 28-29, 1966, which resulted in a call for massive antiwar demonstrations in New York City and San Francisco, California, on April 15, 1967. The National Student Strike for Peace was originally called by the Communist Party. Divisions arose between elements of the Communist Party and the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), culminating in a take-over by the SWP element in the Summer of 1968 and the Communist Party element withdrawing. Source further advised the Student Mobilization Committee locally and nationally is controlled by the SWP and its youth arm, Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), as evidenced by their participation in Student Mobilization Committee functions and their leadership role played in the Student Mobilization Committee.
